

Gray Panthers welcomes Caroline Sugg. Already working hard on issues of affordable housing in New York City, sustainable development goals at the United Nations, and identifying why younger and older generations have much in common, Caroline is a young woman who eagerly takes on assignments, has initiative and conceptualizes her tasks effectively. Caroline has excellent analytical and writing skills that have proven helpful even in the short time she has been with Gray Panthers. No doubt, Caroline Sugg will be an asset to Gray Panthers, NYC Network. Let's welcome her warmly.

My name is Caroline Sugg and I have lived in New York City my entire life. Currently, I am a rising Sophomore at Colgate University in Hamilton, New York and am undecided on my major but have an interest in both Philosophy and the Natural Sciences. This is my first summer working with the Gray Panthers and I am excited to see what can be accomplished this year.
