a robust strategic session

Gender, age and disability inclusive policies based on good disaggregated data are essential to poverty eradication for those older and for people with disabilities. Encouraging developments include: the Multiple Indicator Survey on Aging, a new "citigroup" on age data, disability data bases, and citizen generated data.

We'll be exploring the steps and advocacy necessary to ensuring that accurate data, fully disaggregated by gender, disability and age, will become the standard in data collection efforts for achieving the Sustainable Development Goals

Co-Sponsors: UN Research Institute for Social Development; UN Department of Economic and Social Affairs, Division for Social Policy and Development; Stakeholder Group of Persons with Disabilities for Sustainable Development; Stakeholder Group on Ageing; Gray Panthers; and African Disability Forum
